

Refund Policy

---

When investing and trading on this platform, it is important for investors to understand the refund policy of this platform. Different trading platforms will have different refund policy regulations. The following is an overview of the refund policy of this platform:

Refund policy of digital currency trading platform:

1. Generally, no refund is allowed after a digital currency transaction is successful:

The refund policy of the digital trading platform emphasizes that the platform needs to send cryptocurrency or legal currency to the designated address according to the order, and users must strictly follow the instructions of the platform.

2. Refund policy of foreign exchange futures trading platform:

Successful foreign exchange futures transactions generally do not allow refunds. Foreign exchange futures trading involves complex financial. Usually, it cannot be changed and refunded after the transaction.

3. Refund policy for stock indexes and stocks:

Refund policy for stock and stock index transactions. Generally speaking, once a transaction is executed, the investor is the legal holder and it is difficult to refund or revoke it, unless it is due to obvious errors or technical failures.

If you have any questions or problems related to refunds, please feel free to contact our customer service team. Please note that this refund policy may vary depending on your business model, service type, and changes in laws and regulations. Make sure your refund policy complies with local laws and regulations and provide adequate protection and information to your users.